International Bureau of Aviation Press Release
28th October 2010 – for immediate release

IBA Announces Stage Two Sale of Remaining Alitalia Assets.

The International Bureau of Aviation (IBA) has again been retained to provide sales support services for the disposal of the remaining engines, APUs, aircraft spares, tooling and equipment from the old Alitalia operations.

Information on the 'Lots' of material available will be published from Monday, 1st November 2010 on IBA's website –www.ibagroup.com. The 'Lots' comprise substantial quantities of aircraft rotatable and consumable parts, for a variety of aircraft types including Boeing, Airbus, McDonnell Douglas, ATR and EMB family.

Interested parties should obtain 'data room' access from IBA by emailing Alitalia@ibagroup.com, giving full details of the point of contact within their organisation.

Owen Geach, Commercial Director at IBA commented "The sale process is envisaged to be concluded within two months and, as with the first round of sales, we expect significant levels of interest, especially from airlines operating ATR42, ATR72, EMB135/145 and Fokker Aircraft. There are some excellent packages available."

For more information please email Alitalia@ibagroup.com or call Ben Jacques, Commercial Manager, on +44 (0) 1372 224488.
